DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 4, and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kaneko (JP 01271368 A). Kaneko discloses a binding mechanism that includes a support structure that defines a floor (8) that is capable of adjustment and configured to be driven away from the binding member (See Fig. 2); a wall that defines a stop (see Fig. 3); and a plurality of semicircular disc binding members (12) pivotally mounted with respect to the wall.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kaneko in view of Johnson. Kaneko discloses all the limitations of the claim, but it does not disclose a vibrating mechanism. However, Johnson discloses an apparatus for stacking and aligning sheets that includes a vibrating mechanism (60) for the purpose of ensuring proper alignment of all types of paper (see col. 1). It would have been obvious for a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the applicant's invention to modify Kaneko by utilizing a vibrating mechanism, as disclosed by Johnson, for the purpose of ensuring proper alignment of all types of paper.

Response to Arguments

5. The applicant states that the examiner has given no response to the amendments and arguments submitted by the applicant in the Applicant's Amendment/Replies of March 9, 2005 and June 2, 2005. The examiner disagrees. The claims were rejected by prior art, the applicant amended the claims and overcame the rejection. However, the applicant's amendment led to a new rejection under 35 USC § 112. The applicant amended the claims and overcame the rejection. However, the prior art once again reads on the applicant's amended claims. The applicant has not yet presented any arguments as to how the prior art does not read on the current claims.

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
